Farmers and Consumers Bulletin

VOLUME 54 NO. 12

DECEMBER 2006

SPARKS' REMARKS

*Ron Sparks
Commissioner*

This year, it seems that the Department of Agriculture and Industries has been especially busy trying to make Alabama stronger and safer for both farmers and consumers. Many new activities have been developed in 2006 and we have also made improvements to existing programs in our effort to serve the public. I am very proud of what we have been able to accomplish in a short time. I would like to share just a few of the many successes that our department employees have helped to bring about.

Initially, the department's budget only allocated enough funds to build one new diagnostic lab in the state. After a lot of planning and hard work, two diagnostic labs were completed in 2006, one in Auburn and one in Elba. We also broke ground for a third lab in Boaz that we hope to have finished in 2007.

Our employees work hard every day to ensure that we have the safest food supply possible. In June, I extended the stop sale that had been issued in August 2005 for Vietnamese farm raised fish and seafood. I did this because not only were fish being mislabeled on purpose; many samples were shown to contain antibiotics banned by the FDA. This stop sale will continue to be in effect as long as the misrepresentation continues.

Our employees have been testing birds for disease for many years, but in 2006 alone, our staff has tested over 150,000 birds in Alabama for Avian Influenza (AI). This number has increased dramatically in the last couple of years. Although surveillance has been ongoing, we increased our testing in response to consumers' growing concerns about the highly pathogenic H5N1 type of AI. Alabama is a poultry state and it is incredibly important to keep the public safe and to also protect our poultry industry.

The case of bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) found in an Alabama cow is another example of how the Department of Agriculture and Industries has worked tirelessly to protect consumers. We want consumers to know that we continually work with farmers and producers year round to test their livestock. We may not always be able to prevent disease from occurring, but early detection can be essential to containing a potential health risk from spreading or entering the food supply.

Our department has worked to encourage the production and use of alternative fuels in Alabama. We were able to assist in getting funding for a biodiesel plant in Moundville. Now we are working to support the new plant being built in Monroe County. I hope that over the next few years we will see more plants producing alternative fuels in Alabama.

Selma NEWS - Nutrition, Exercise & Wellness

The Selma City School board honored state and local officials with a ceremony hosted by Sophia P. Kingston Elementary for their work with Selma NEWS (Nutrition, Exercise and Wellness.)

Selma NEWS is a program initiated by State Agriculture & Industries Commissioner Ron Sparks and Senator Hank Sanders two years ago that ignited a partnership between Selma City School Board, Wallace Community College Selma, and the City of Selma. The program addresses the problem of obesity by making exercise and diet a priority for students.

Superintendent Dr. James Carter said that the goal of Selma NEWS is to bring Selma residents back to good health, fitness and wellness.

During the ceremony, students sang songs, provided skits, and demonstrated exercises on the "Keys to Fitness." Kingston Elementary "Keys to Fitness" were education, healthy eating habits, exercise and safety, and staying drug-free.

Commissioner Sparks told the children that their program was wonderful! He was impressed by the knowledge of the students and noted the priority that has been placed on health and wellness in Selma.

Following the ceremony, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries Ron Sparks enjoyed lunch in the cafeteria with some of the students from Sophia P. Kingston Elementary.

"The Selma City Schools program is close to my heart," Sparks said after the ceremony was over. "It should be the pilot program for the State of Alabama." Sanders also thanked the children and encouraged them to make healthy choices. "You are beautiful, strong and smart," he said.

Commissioner Sparks, Senator Sanders, and Superintendent Carter received an award at the program recognizing them for their commitment to wellness and for their contribution to the Selma NEWS program. Other recipients of the award were Selma Mayor James Perkins and WCCS president Dr. James Mitchell.

I am repeatedly impressed with the employees at the Department of Agriculture and Industries. The professionalism and quality of care they provide to the people of Alabama shows. Please know that we are here working for you. If you ever need assistance or have suggestions as to how we can serve you better, please don't hesitate to let us know.

We all wish you a Merry Christmas and happy holiday season!

RECYCLE

YOUR TREE!

What will you do with your live Christmas tree after the holidays? The best way to get rid of the tree is to recycle it.

Christmas trees are not a major landfill problem, but sometimes tree disposal is a concern for those not knowing the alternatives, says Extension horticulturist Ken Tilt with the Alabama Cooperative Extension System.

So start the year 2007 as a friend to the environment and recycle your tree.

2006 Century and Heritage Farm Program

This year nineteen farms qualified for the Alabama Century and Heritage Farm program. Each farm has been in operation as a family farm for over 100 years. These farms represent the rich heritage of agriculture in our state. All recipients will receive a certificate signed by the Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries Ron Sparks and Governor Bob Riley, officially designating their farm as an Alabama Century and/or Heritage Farm. This year each family will also receive an aluminum sign with the designation for their farm printed on it. Each farm and its designation is listed in the adjacent table by county. Several families received their certificates at county Farm-City Banquets last month. If you feel your family farm qualifies for this program make sure to check the Alabama Farmers and Consumers Bulletin next summer for an announcement that applications are available for the 2007 program.

ticipation. Several of the Central Association's cooperators have participated for more than 15 years. The general public receives benefit as well and many testify that this benefit cannot be overstated. The information contained in the Summary Report is invaluable to all farmers, and is immensely useful to lenders, researchers, and public policy makers. This association has provided input at public listening sessions conducted by the Secretary of Agriculture and responded to Congressional committee requests during the most recent farm bill and disaster funding legislation. The economists also provide training to accountants and tax practitioners at farm income tax workshops across the state. For more information on CAFAA, contact Hal Pepper at 334/361-7273.

"Bonnie Plant Farm's Cabbage Program is a great way to get kids interested in agriculture," said Sparks. "Not only does it provide a great educational resource for the kids of Alabama and help them plan for their future education, the kids really enjoy growing their

The 3rd Grade Cabbage Program is free to all 3rd graders and schools who sign up. Once a teacher enrolls the class in the program, Bonnie Plant Farm will contact the school and deliver the number of plants requested. For more information, visit: <http://bonnieplants.com> and click on the tab for the 3rd Grade Cabbage Program, or call Ellis Ingram at 334/738-3104.

The 2006 Alabama Agricultural Statistics Bulletin is available in printed form free of charge as long as supplies last. The bulletin contains information listed by commodity and by county. This same information is also available on-line by accessing the Alabama Agricultural Statistics Service website at www.nass.usda.gov/al. The annual Fact Sheet on Alabama Agriculture, which provides a broad statistical overview of the state's agriculture, is also available by contacting the Alabama Agricultural Statistics Service at P. O. Box 240578, Montgomery, AL 36124 or 334/279-3555.

Thank You!!

Commissioner Sparks and the employees of the Department of Agriculture and Industries are especially grateful to Frank Wadsworth for the trees he has donated to the department for the past several years. Wadsworth Tree Farm is located in Elmore County off of Highway 231 north of Wetumpka near Wallsboro. For more information, call 334/567-6308 or log on to <http://home.mindspring.com/~wadsoil/>. Thank you Mr. Wadsworth for this expression of your generosity during the holiday season!
